

WESTERN STORM DEATH TOLL RISES

MARKET RUNS
IN CONFUSION
ON USED CARSPRICES FANTASTIC;
SIGNS OF BREAK
REPORTED

(By The Associated Press)

The national used car market, thrown suddenly on its own with the removal of price controls, was in confusion today (Wednesday), a survey showed, as some dealers called prices "fantastic" and others reported definite signs of a "break."

A new development, destined, according to dealer circles to be short-lived, was efforts of new car owners to "unload" them at inflated prices.

In Philadelphia, used car dealers were accused by the Philadelphia Automobile Trade Association of conducting "an unscrupulous racket" in new car dealings. Thomas Lowry, president of the association, said some used car men had marked up the regular prices 100 per cent and more.

Milton Stein, secretary of the Philadelphia Used Car Dealers Association, which is said to represent 90 per cent of the dealers, said the guilty parties were not members of his organization.

The Detroit Auto Dealers Association instituted a registration system in an effort to halt purchase of two and more new cars by individuals. Officials said duplicate sales were resulting in the appearance of the cars on used car lots "at double the original price."

J. B. Caldwell, executive vice-president of the National Association of Used Car Dealers, reached in Chicago, said prices were "chaotic" with little relation to true values. After the present spurt, he declared, however, the demand trend should be downward. He added he had already noted a drop in the values of unrepaid cars and expects a decline in prices of reconditioned cars by the first of the year.

William L. Mallon, president of the National Automobile Dealers Association, said that OPA ceilings on many used cars were too high, thus providing artificial support. When the public finds there is no actual support, he said, prices "are bound to drop."

The situation was reported by individual cities as follows:

Detroit: Dealers, calling their customers "the sharpest in the country," declared buying had been dropping steadily for 60 days, and prices had begun to head down. Louis J. Cohen, executive head of the Michigan Used Car Dealers Association, however, said today's prices were up roughly 20 per cent over OPA.

St. Louis: Dealers were reported to have few cars on hand, but prices ranged from $175 under the old ceiling to $50 above.

Omaha: A major used car dealer, who asked anonymity, said "legitimate" dealers were selling used cars at the approximate previous black market level. Cars with former ceilings of about $900, he said, were selling at $1,150 to $1,200.

Louisville: One lot offered a 1946 Plymouth sedan for $2,250, a 1941 Cadillac for $2,650, and a 1946 Mercury for $2,250. A 1946 Ford sold for $2,675.

Des Moines: "The general tendency of dealers' area is to hold used car prices stable—at or in some cases below, the last OPA ceilings," said S. L. Cohen, treasurer of the Iowa Retail Automobile Dealers Association. He reported buyers were "getting choosy."

Milwaukee: Used car dealers reported prices up $50 to $100 on light models while prices on larger cars were dropping. On the whole, he said, used cars were selling below the old ceilings.

Government Will
Dismiss 115,000
Civilian Workers

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—At least 115,000 civilian workers of the federal government in this country and its possessions appear slated for dismissal by New Year's Day.

Budget Director James E. Webb, carrying forward a program of payroll paring, today ordered 93,400 Army and Navy civilian employees cut off the rolls, by January 1, making a 1,000,000 reduction in that sector since V-J Day.

This development came on top of word from OPA that dismissal notices had been sent to 10,000 of that agency's workers and another 12,000 would get their notices by the end of this month.

Reductions in other agencies also were in the making for later this month, but the net effect might be diminished or offset by further increases in employees of the still-growing Veterans and War Assets Administration.

In any event, the 115,000 cut-back in Army-Navy-OPA payrolls appeared likely to trim overall federal employment—excluding that in foreign countries—to below 2,250,000 by New Year's Day compared with a V-J Day figure of well over 3,000,000.

Webb earlier set a goal of bringing the total figure down to 2,350,700 or less by November 16. Officials told reporters his program was moving along on schedule and the total would be safely within the 2,359,700 ceiling after some 25,000 employment service workers are shifted from federal to state payrolls on Friday.

Officials said flatly that the new reductions were a continuance of the administration's own program and were not influenced by pay-roll cut demands voiced by Republicans since their election triumph.

BLASTS KILL 6
IN JERUSALEMExplosion Blows Up One
Suicide Patrol; Train
Service Halted

BY CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Jersalem, Nov. 13 (AP)—A flurry of mine blasts in Jerusalem and on Palestine's railroads killed six soldiers and injured eight persons in a new outbreak of underground-inspired violence today and caused all passenger train services on the Jerusalem-Lydd and Lydda-Jaffa lines to be suspended until further notice.

One sabotage attack by Jewish extremists who exploded a mine just outside Jerusalem at dawn blew up one "suicide patrol" sent out to test the railway tracks for explosives, wiping out the entire patrol of six men.

A second mine near Jaffa wounded a fireman and the Arab police guard and stranded the first passenger train of the day.

A third blasted a military truck near St. Georges school in Jerusalem injuring six British police, three of them seriously.

Four more British constables suffered shock from the blast. The open police car in which most of the policemen were seated was hurled about 100 yards and windows in nearby houses were broken.

A search of the immediate area was begun at once in the belief other mines might be concealed. Police at the bomb scene in the Snea Shearim quarter said the mine apparently was placed by the Stern gang, "from the appearance of the job." There was evidence that the mine had been detonated by a 100-yard-long electric wire from behind a stone wall, and that an observer had given the signal for the blast from a lookout atop the wall.

TEMPLE ABBOTT
THROWN IN FIREChinese Priests Revolt,
Cremate Church Head
And Layman

Peiping, Nov. 13 (AP)—A feud of a decade over church property flared to a climax yesterday when 36 priests at the beautiful Taoist White Cloud Temple revolted and cremated the temple's Abbott and a layman.

The priests, all under arrest, were quoted by Chinese authorities as confessing they took the action because of long-standing dispute over Temple property.

Monday the priests signed a document announcing ten "crimes" committed by the pair and posted it at the temple gate. The allegations included "unlawful selling of temple property, including sacred books and sacrificial livestock, and illegal relations with women."

Armed with clubs and ropes, the priests smashed their way into the living quarters of the Abbott and layman yesterday police said, and dragged them to the temple gate.

The pair was beaten with clubs, trussed with ropes and flung on a huge pile of wood. Gasoline then was poured over the bier and it was ignited. An hour later the police found the bodies, completely charred.

The formal session which Lewis and his aides had with Secretary of the Interior Krug ended abruptly after only 30 minutes.

Lewis refused comment but later went back to see Krug, shortly after the secretary had said there would be no further meetings for the present. It was not disclosed who had requested this non-scheduled meeting.

At the conclusion of the second session, Lewis emerged looking cheerful. Krug sent out word to reporters that he would probably have further meetings with Lewis tomorrow.

Krug had talked with five leading spokesmen for the bituminous operators in the morning. That session lasted only 45 minutes, leading to the belief that it had borne little fruit.

OUTLOOK DARK
COAL DISPUTEOWNERS SOUNDED
OUT; CONFERENCE
ENDS ABRUPTLY

BY HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—Soft coal operators said tonight that Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug is attempting to revive direct negotiations between them and John L. Lewis' miners and postpone any strike action for 60 days.

Lewis and Krug met twice during the day after the secretary had sounded out the operators on their willingness to reopen negotiations with the miners for return of the bituminous pits which the government seized during last spring's strike.

One of the five operators who met for 45 minutes with Krug today as spokesmen for the industry, said they all agreed to sit down with Lewis and try to work out a contract, but that they had no word tonight as to Lewis' reaction.

Prospects Gloomy

Presumably Krug's request that the miners abandon their implied threat of a strike and termination of the present pact November 20, was not immediately accepted by Lewis.

Their sessions brought no announcement from either Krug or Lewis, and the operators said they were without further information tonight.

Krug himself was keeping quiet on his plans. The statements of the operator, who wished to remain anonymous, did not conflict with other known developments in the day, although the brevity of sessions between the secretary and the parties contributed to a general gloomy outlook at the time.

A second operator said there had been a general discussion of the situation, but that Krug had made no specific propositions, nor had the operators.

The question of retroactivity of any wage increase immediately clouded the prospects for winning an extension of the Krug-Lewis agreement under which the mines are operating now.

Lewis was moving to wind up that agreement Nov. 20, a step which traditionally would mean "no contract, no work" to the 400,000 soft coal miners.

The formal session which Lewis and his aides had with Secretary of the Interior Krug ended abruptly after only 30 minutes.

Lewis refused comment but later went back to see Krug, shortly after the secretary had said there would be no further meetings for the present. It was not disclosed who had requested this non-scheduled meeting.

Boiler Blows Up
School In Baroda;
One Dead, 18 Hurt

Baroda, Mich., Nov. 13 (AP)—A boiler explosion shattered two floors of a consolidated rural school while 260 children were in the building today, killing one pupil and injuring at least 18 others.

Walter Ruppel, 13, died less than three hours after the blast and another child, Larry Barker, was reported in critical condition.

A classroom full of seventh grade pupils was dropped from the second floor to the basement. Boys and girls were buried beneath debris.

A score of other children had left a first floor classroom directly above the boiler minutes before the explosion, escaping almost certain injury or death.

The blast, which echoed for miles through the flat fruit belt in southwestern Michigan, blew out one wall and dropped the roof two stories to the basement.

The boiler blew up while a 16-year-old pupil, Eldon Nitz, was firing the furnace in the absence of his janitor uncle, Leonard Nitz, according to school superintendent Howard Walter. He said the cause of the blast was not determined as yet.

Red Cross disaster personnel, police and fire apparatus and wrecking crews from cities and villages throughout the area converged on this little village of 1,000 persons.

A seventh grade class of about 20 pupils was winding up a geography class about 11:40 a. m., when the explosion took place. Most of the victims were at their desks in this second-floor room.

Betty Healy, 12, who escaped injury, said:

"I just remember looking up when the room turned upside down, I was sitting at my desk doing geography but I didn't hear any noise. I fell to the ground floor where they pulled me out."

Another seventh grader, June Brunke, said she "just saw everything go up in the air." She was hospitalized but her injuries were not reported critical.

Thelma Schultz, 11, one of the most seriously injured, said "I didn't hear any noise at all but all of a sudden I was pinned down. They lifted up part of the roof because I had my leg pinned underneath."

Although the building did not catch fire, a number of the children suffered flash burns from the explosion. Marilyn Nitz, 12-year-old sister of the boy who fired the furnace, said "they cut my clothes off" to get at her body burns.

Mrs. Frederick Williams, wife of a Congregational minister, turned her parsonage across from the school into a first aid station. She and Mrs. Walter, wife of a superintendent, wrapped the little victims in blankets and sheets until they could be removed to hospitals in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph.

A short time later, the mother said, Clyde took the butcher knife into the living room and began to sharpen it.

Mrs. Nichol said Clyde and a little while after that and that when Clyde started towards the girl, she hit him on the head with a vase.

The boy, according to the mother's statement to police, then lunged at Carol with the knife and it penetrated her body.

Northern Michigan
College Is Granted
Facilities For 900

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Federal Works Agency today announced the transfers of surplus buildings to Northern Michigan College of Education at Marquette and to Wayne University in order that these institutions may serve additional student veterans.

Equipment to increase enrollment to 900, including 550 veterans, was allotted to Northern Michigan. Present capacity of the college is 750.

Buildings to be turned over to Wayne University will be used for classroom, office, laboratory, drawing room, aeronautical engineering, bookstore and cafeteria purposes in order to serve 13,100 including 6,000 veterans.

The 3rd infantry division is now at Camp Campbell, Ky., following its return from occupation duty in Germany.

Nineteen other units will be reduced to one officer and one enlisted man per battalion. Thirty-five units of company size will be stripped entirely of personnel although not inactivated.

All other ground force units will be cut temporarily 20 per cent in strength because of the absence of men on amphibious and winter maneuvers.

RUSH OF DEER
HUNTERS IS ONStraits Ferries Jammed
By Record Exodus From Lower Michigan

Mackinaw City, Mich., Nov. 13 (AP)—A record exodus of lower Michigan deer hunters into the Upper Peninsula was indicated today as an eight-mile queue of cars formed at the Straits of Mackinac more than 40 hours in advance of the season opening Friday.

Four state highway department carriers shuttled between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace without regard to schedules and the railroad car ferry Wawatam was pressed into service on a part-time basis.

State officials said the rush started later this year than last, but expressed a belief that the north-bound traffic would fall off by Thursday. Most hunters allow a day or two to reach their favorite deer haunts and to set up camp.

Youngsters peddled hot coffee and sandwiches to the hunters in their cars as they waited to board a ferry.

Conspicuous in the auto line-up were house trailers, jeeps strapped with hundreds of pounds of equipment, small trailers loaded with tents and many old jalopies which appeared to be making their last long trip. Bales of straw were piled atop many cars in anticipation of very chilly November nights in the north country.

A weather forecaster predicted in Detroit, however, that temperatures for the first deer hunting week-end would be somewhat above normal and that only snow flurries could be hoped for at best.

Capt. Hillard Bengten, superintendent of the state ferry service, said ferry loadings thus far have exceeded those of last year, when a record number of cars were carried across the Straits.

News Stories Anger
Russians; American
Reporters Banned

Berlin, Nov. 13 (AP)—Russia, reportedly in anger over newspaper stories printed in Western countries, slammed the door today on a group of United States correspondents seeking to visit the Soviet zone of Germany.

Russian authorities, without giving any explanation, notified the American military government of their action, stating that for the time being at least, no American reporters would be admitted to the zone even on such brief conducted tours as have been held during the last 11 months.

The notification came in an oral reply to an official of the political section of AGM, who had requested that tours be arranged for 30 American correspondents.

An informed American source attributed the Russian action to "anger over stories which have appeared in the Western press about deportation of German workers to Russia and renewed dismantling of factories for reparations."

Mexico City, Nov. 13 (AP)—Sixteen persons were killed today in the crash of a DC-3 passenger plane east of Perote, midway between Mexico City and the coast.

Donald M. Stoner, vice-president of the airline, Comunicaciones Aereas de Vera Cruz, said the passenger list included 10 adults and three children. All, including the crew of three, perished, he said.

DRIFTS PILED
18 FEET HIGH
BY BLIZZARDSRAIN - LADEN WINDS
POUND SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

(By The Associated Press)

The death toll in pre-winter storms that have lashed western sections of the country for more than a week rose to at least 17 Wednesday as rain-laden winds continued pounding southern California, and planes, army weasels, trucks and bulldozers were sent on mercy missions in snow-blanketed Colorado.

Meanwhile, a Western Airlines plane, with 11 persons aboard, was missing, apparently in the snowpelted mountains north of Burbank, Calif.

Heavy snowfall clogged communications lines through mountains in the interior of California as winds of gale velocity raked the coastline. The winds uprooted hundreds of trees and streets and stores were flooded in the Los Angeles area. Traffic was slowed or stalled in hundreds of cities.

A motorist was killed on the California ridge route when his auto skidded in the snow and was wrecked. Mountain snowfall ranged up to 26 inches at Big Pines and a party of motorists was marooned on the Rim of the World highway, above San Bernardino.

More Snow Threatened

In Colorado, which has suffered from the worst blizzard in years, Army vehicles bucked huge snowdrifts in an effort to get food to hundreds of families and thousands of head of livestock.

Fair weather spurred the relief efforts but the California storm, moving slowly eastward, brought the threat of new snowfall for Colorado later in the week.

The Colorado blizzards, which claimed 15 lives, piled snow drifts as high as 10 to 18 feet in some places, marooning families, trapping livestock without adequate feed and snarling communications.

Five Army transport planes flew today to a herd of 10,000 cattle trapped in three feet of snow in Lincoln county. Farther south, in the Pueblo area, 64 Army trucks, seven "weasels" and three bulldozers from the Pueblo Ordnance depot fanned out over the country in relief missions.

The Red Cross set up headquarters at Colorado Springs to coordinate relief efforts.

Snow also blanketed Nebraska, northwest Iowa, southwest Minnesota, southern South Dakota and northwestern Kansas. Light snow fell in Nevada.

In other sections of the country, generally fair weather and normal temperatures prevailed. A killing frost definitely ended the longest growing season in many years in the Midwest.

TRIESTE PROVES TOUGH PROBLEM

Russia Leaves Way Open To Break Deadlock On Adriatic Port

BY ALEX H. SINGLETON
New York, Nov. 13. (AP)—Russia demanded tonight fourteen changes in the Paris-approved plan for administration of strategic Trieste, but left the door open for a break in the foreign ministers' council deadlock over the ancient Adriatic port.

The specific nature of the amendments offered by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov was not disclosed immediately, pending a study by the British, French and United States representatives on the council.

It was learned, however, from persons present at the deliberations that they covered nearly every paragraph in the Trieste plan which was first advanced by the French and later approved at the Paris peace conference by a 15-6 vote.

It appeared likely that the amendments were aimed chiefly at sharply curtailing the power of the governor of Trieste who would be appointed and guided by the United Nations security council, and give instead greater authority to the elective assembly.

Because Secretary of State Byrnes, British Foreign Secretary Bevin and Deputy Foreign Minister George De Merville of France saw the proposals today for the first time, there was no action on any of them. The council adjourned after approximately three hours and will meet again tomorrow at 3 p. m. (CST).

As the four foreign ministers and their aides huddled around the round, white maple table in the council chambers, the broad issue was this:

Shall the appointive governor of Trieste or the elective assembly have the final say on its administration?

Recruits Unlimited As Navy Suspends Enlistment Quotas

Washington, Nov. 13. (AP)—The Navy has suspended its quota system for enlistments and now is accepting an unlimited number of recruits, it was learned tonight.

Navy officials said that when the service started paring down strength to the projected peacetime size, an enlistment quota of 1,500 a month was set. However, in recent weeks the Navy has discovered that the rate of attrition—loss of strength through expiration of enlistments, demobilization of drafted personnel, discharge for illness and other factors—was greater than originally estimated, they told a reporter.

Railroads Cancel Reduced Rates For Servicemen Dec. 1

Washington, Nov. 13. (AP)—The Association of American Railroads said today that all but four of the railroads operating east of the Mississippi River plan to cancel reduced furlough rates for servicemen, effective December 1, but western lines would not.

Under the proposal, members of the armed forces would pay the regular civilian rate of 2.1 cents a mile instead of the present one and one quarter cents a mile.

The new rules will automatically go into effect December 1 unless suspended by the Interstate Commerce commission pending a hearing. Normally, the commission orders a hearing if protests are received about proposed railroad rate increases.

In Chicago a spokesman for the Western Association of Railroad Executives said that western rail lines will not cancel furlough rates west of the general line marked by Chicago, St. Louis, and the Mississippi River.

Starting December 6, however, furlough rates from the west to points east of that line will be withdrawn, with the exception of points served by the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, the Illinois Central, the St. Louis and San Francisco, and the Gulf, Mobile, and Ohio Railroads.

AIRLINER DOWN WITH 11 ABOARD

Search For DC-3 Plane Halted By Darkness And Bad Weather

Burbank, Calif., Nov. 13. (AP)—The fate of 11 persons aboard a missing Western Air Lines DC-3 plane remained a secret of the nearby cloud-shrouded hills tonight as bad weather and darkness suspended air and ground search until tomorrow.

The airliner was last reported early today as it prepared for a landing at Lockheed air terminal here, inbound from Salt Lake City and Las Vegas, Nev.

Search by 10 planes tomorrow will be concentrated in a 500-square mile area in the San Gabriel mountains, particularly between Newhall and Palmdale, and around Monrovia, La Crescenta, Oxnard and to Santa Barbara on the Coast.

The Santa Monica mountains were searched today but low-lying clouds and stormy weather including snow prevented suitable search of the San Gabriel mountains.

For the ground search tomorrow 40 horses will be available, at Newhall and Montrose. Motorized surgical units stood by at the airport in case survivors are located.

The plane, enroute to Lockheed air terminal from Salt Lake City, reported in over Newhall, an air traffic check point, at 3:24 a. m. (Pacific Standard Time). The pilot gave his altitude as 9000 feet. Thirteen minutes later, indicating nothing amiss, he asked the control tower for landing instructions.

The normal approach route is through a pass, flanked by 2200-foot peaks, and it was feared the craft was slightly off course in driving rain and snow flurries.

Western Air said the gas supply would have been exhausted by 7 a. m.

Thousands Are Left Homeless Following Philippine Typhoon

Manila, Thursday, Nov. 14. (AP)—Thousands of Filipinos have been left homeless by a typhoon which is sweeping across the Visayas in the Central Philippines, president Roxas was advised today.

The report came from Mayor Vicente Del Rosario of Cebu City, who said a flood accompanying the typhoon was the worst in the city's history, inundating the main business section. There was no mention of loss of life.

Roxas dispatched a government relief party to survey the damage and ordered food and medicine sped to the disaster zone.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

How to Handle a Fortune

Some months ago I reported in the Clarion how Mel Bates' uncle died of north, and left him with a tidy fortune.

Naturally, our town was curious to see how Mel would spend it: Traveling around the world... getting a new house or car... wearing fancy clothes... or dining on cold pheasant and champagne...?

We can now report, Mel hasn't changed a bit! Drop in on him any night, and you'll find him in his shirt sleeves by the fire, chatting with the Missus, sharing a mellow glass of beer with friends.

From where I sit, Mel has learned the art of handling money—as well as handling people. You don't let cash-in-the-bank push you around any more than you let people push you around. If you like the simple, homey life; companionship and quiet ways; a glass of beer and friendly talk—that's worth a fortune, after all!

Judge Sees Sally Dance And Decides Art Isn't Immoral

Los Angeles, Nov. 13. (AP)—Fan and bubble dancer Sally Rand convinced Judge Leo Aggeler at a "command performance" in a downtown theater today that her "art" is not immoral and obscene. She and theater manager Howard R. Williams were acquitted of charges of presenting an indecent performance.

The court adjourned to Sally's show to see just what might have happened Halloween night when police raided her act.

Later, when court resumed, police officers said this wasn't the same show at all. They said Sally did too much concealing and the lights weren't bright enough.

Sally, who at 42 has been doing these dances for the last 13 years, performed today under perhaps the darkest blue spotlight Judge Aggeler or anybody else will ever see. While the orchestra play Claude De Bussey's "Claire De Lune," Sally gyrated behind two huge fans.

Not until she mounted a stairway at the end of the dance and dropped the fans as the stage curtains enveloped her, was her body exposed for more than 1/150th of a second.

Michigan Veterans Are Promised Quick Payment Of Bonus

Lansing, Nov. 13. (AP)—Machinery is being prepared to enable Michigan to pay its veterans their war bonus within two weeks of the time individual applications are filed, Brig. Gen. LeRoy Pearson, adjutant general of Michigan, estimated today.

Pearson, whom Governor Kelly has assigned the task of implementing the bonus, said his agency had developed its plans as far as it can until it receives the authorization and funds from the legislature to proceed.

By declining to call a special session, Kelly made it clear Tuesday that the word must come from the 1947 legislative session.

Peru Earthquakes Claim 410 Lives, Towns Laid Waste

Lima, Peru, Nov. 13. (AP)—Verifiable reports received tonight said a series of earthquakes which began in Peru last Sunday had taken a known death toll of at least 410 persons and caused widespread destruction on the western Andean slopes.

Newspapers estimated the total casualties at 500, but this count was not confirmed by official sources. The known casualties included 50 men killed in the Consuelo Mine, but it was not known if these deaths were due to a mine cave-in.

Communication lines still were down in many parts of the country and accounts of the tragedy were meager.

On the basis of a telegram from authorities in Cabana, the ministry of the interior said that Conchucos, a town of 4,400 inhabitants in the Ancash department north of Lima, appeared to have been the hardest hit. Three hundred persons were killed and 250 were injured there.

Sihuas, in the same department, was completely destroyed. A ranch owner telegraphed from La Pampa that 40 bodies had been taken from the debris at Sihuas, a town of 11,540 population. This ty dead were reported at Pomabamba.

Accounts received in Lima said the earthquakes almost completely destroyed Mollebamba, 3,400 population, and half destroyed Mollepata, a town of about 2,800. The first shock, lasting 27 seconds, struck Sunday afternoon. Since then 52 minor shocks have been felt, reports from the interior said.

All modern varieties of sugar beet are derived from two standard "improved" types.

DEER SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

U. P. Is Flooded With Hunters Ready For Opening Day

State ferries at the Straits of Mackinac have been carrying capacity loads of northbound hunters for the past several days, supporting predictions by the conservation department that all records in the number of hunters in the woods will be broken this coming deer season.

The 1946 season will open Friday morning, and most hunters like to be in the woods for the opening day. In addition to the thousands of downstate and out-state hunters, hundreds of local hunters have left or are leaving for camp today.

There has been a steady stream of applicants for deer hunting license at district conservation headquarters office in Escanaba, with 180 resident and 11 non-resident licenses sold to yesterday afternoon. The rush is expected to continue today. Deer hunting licenses also are being sold in other places in the county, and the total number of licensed hunters is expected to set a new record.

The conservation department has predicted that 300,000 hunters will be in the woods during the 15-day season opening tomorrow morning.

It was reported from conservation headquarters that many hunters are availing themselves of the emergency message service offered by the department. More than 20 hunters who obtained licenses registered their names and the location of their camp so they might be more easily contacted in case of emergency. Similar registrations are being taken wherever licenses are sold.

Old Landmark Razed

The old livery barn building next to the Percy Winters store is being torn down to make way for another more up-to-date design and usage. Built during the early years of this township's existence, it has served well during the horse and buggy days, the proprietor for many years being the late James Hennessey who was mail carrier during the transition to the motor age. The property was later owned by E. J. Purtil and used for storage purposes.

Boreal Glove Co. Plans Plant Here

Marinette—Although negotiations have not been completed, the Escanaba city council is preparing to purchase the Coliseum in that city and lease it to the Boreal Glove Manufacturing company which has a factory here.

The council at Escanaba has authorized the mayor and clerk to enter into a contract with Richard Flath, owner of the Coliseum, for purchase of the building at $15,500 plus four per cent interest. The city would pay for the building over a 10 year period.

The council also has authorized the city manager to have necessary remodeling done at the building so that it will be suitable for use by the glove company which would lease it from the city. Remodeling was estimated at $4,500. It was reported in Escanaba that Economic Stability?

DESPITE expressed industrial sentiment for holding the price line, the immediate outlook for stability in the nation's economic market is not too bright. Already many companies have announced price increases in their commodities and there is worry that the trickle may develop into a flood. Moreover, segments of organized labor, particularly the coal miners and the automobile workers, are beating the drums for another round of wage increases which, if granted, would serve only to launch further boosts in the price line.

Undoubtedly some price adjustment in specific commodities is justified and probably necessary. In its effort to control American industry, the OPA made a lot of mistakes and developed some rank price injustices. Freed from OPA control, companies that were over a barrel, so to speak, can be expected to take this opportunity to adjust their prices to correct such injustices.

Except for these isolated situations, however, industry must resolve to maintain the lowest possible price structure during the period in which we are striving to regain our economic equilibrium. Failure to do so will give organized labor a compelling reason to demand new wage boosts. Such a situation could easily set the fuse on a wave of strikes even more disastrous and more discouraging than those that swept the country just a year ago.

In the public's interest, major strikes must be avoided in the critical months ahead. The public is growing weary of facing a coal shortage every few months.

Profit in Electricity

THE importance of the municipally operated electric utility to the taxpayers of Escanaba is evidenced by the annual fiscal report, which reveals that the city profited in the 12 months period ending June 30 to the extent of $90,575.46. This is in addition to $45,439.20 paid by the utility to the city in taxes.

The profit realized from the operation of the electric utility constitutes a savings to that amount to the city taxpayers.

Continued utility profits, plus the revenue that the City of Escanaba will receive as a result of the sales tax diversion amendment adopted by Michigan voters at the recent election, should be reflected in lowered property taxes in the city next year. The taxpayers have a right to expect that.

In this era of rising prices, it is wholesome to study the trend in electric rates. In 1936 the average per kilowatt hour rate to residential customers in Escanaba was 7 1/2c. In the past fiscal year the average rate was 7 1/2c. Increase in usage has nearly tripled during that period, with the result that the entire community is gaining comparable greater benefits.

What has happened to electric rates in Escanaba, of course, is typical of the electric rate trend all over the nation. Electricity has truly become man's most efficient servant.

Subsidized Housing

THE need for more housing in virtually every city of the United States is apparent to even the casual observer but the Wilson Wyatt plan to toss millions of dollars into so-called loans that are hardly anything but outright subsidies has a bad odor.

The Wyatt plan is to lavishly subsidize a number of big prefabrication companies, but the catch is that these companies refuse to put up a reasonable share of their own capital. For that reason the Reconstruction Finance Corporation refuses to authorize the loans.

Obviously if the prefab companies can do the job that they are telling the government that they can do, it is reasonable to believe that they would be willing to put up some of their own money. At least, they should be able to borrow substantially from private sources.

It is significant that some of the well established prefab companies have withdrawn from the market entirely in these days of uncertain labor, material and price conditions. These companies operate under their own financing.

During the new deal era, it was the general practice to toss taxpayers' money around wildly in crackpot schemes, but the time has come when the public is demanding 100 cents worth of value for its tax dollar.

Wisconsin's Centennial

WISCONSIN is planning a big centennial celebration in 1948 and is laying the groundwork now for the event. It is discouraging to note, however, that the centennial committee, meeting in Madison Tuesday, decided to ask the federal government to help finance the celebration.

No definite sum of money has been decided upon as the amount to be requested, but the figure of $200,000 was mentioned.

Rep. John Byrnes of Green Bay, who attended the meeting, spoke out vigorously against a request for federal aid but the planning committee took the view that the federal government in the past has made contributions to other states for similar events and that Wisconsin, too, should get back some of the tax money it has contributed to the federal government.

This is the type of thinking that has skyrocketed federal expenditures in recent years. Every state, every county and every city is out to get all it can from the federal treasury, overlooking the fact that the United States government today is so heavily in debt that it may never get out from under its burden.

Common sense would dictate that the federal government owes no obligation whatsoever to any state committee for any public celebration, centennial or otherwise. It is undoubtedly true that in the slap-happy days of the new deal—tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect—money was tossed around lavishly for schemes of this kind, including many even less deserving. That in itself does not justify a continuance of this extravagance.

With all due respects to a great sister state, the best advice that we can offer is to take the counsel of Rep. Byrnes and "stand on its own feet" in financing the state centennial of 1948.

It's about time sanity returned to federal government.

TRULY BI-PARTISAN

(Grand Rapids Herald)

Assurance by Senator Vandenberg to the United Nations that a change in the control of Congress does not mean a change in United States' foreign policy should allay the fears expressed in the press of other Nations immediately following the election. It emphasizes the National unity inherent in the bi-partisan policy we have pursued in the past.

His statement of last Friday will, we hope, allay any fears abroad that our united front might have been less than it seemed. He speaks with the authority of the man who is likely to become chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and of a representative who has just been given a vote of confidence by the Party which, until the election, stood in the minority position.

Both the election result and Senator Vandenberg's most recent statement affirm the course upon which we are embarked.

He spoke again, as he has so often spoken in recent months, for all of us not for one Party or one faction.

THE PRECEPT IS GOOD

(Wall Street Journal)

"Future wage increases must be earned by increasing production per manhour and eliminating wastes so that until labor costs can be kept down while wages rise."

The above quotation comes from the monthly Survey of the American Federation of Labor and one reading it scarcely knows whether to be pleased by such a succinct statement of economic fundamentals or to be a bit vexed by the gap between precept and performance.

The A. F. of L., particularly its building trades unions, has a good many members who do not act on any such precept and who have been and are engaged not at all in increasing production per manhour, but artificially limiting production per man hour.

But the case is not hopeless. Perhaps the A. F. of L. will be like the man who started a bank in a pioneer community. One man and then another made deposits until there was quite a sum at hand. At that point the banker got confidence and put in some money of his own.

MIDWEST BACK HOME WITH GOP

(Milwaukee Journal)

It has passed without much notice in the postelection tumult, but there is only one Democrat from the midwest left in the United States senate.

The lone survivor is Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois. In contrast, it was only nine years ago—in 1937—when there were nearly 20 midwestern Democrats in a senate that totaled 76 Democrats. That was in the seventy-fifth congress and Roosevelt New Dealism was at the peak of its strength.

In that congress, every midwestern state had Democratic senators but North Dakota and Minnesota. Minnesota was represented by two Farmer-Laborites. Six states—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Ohio and South Dakota—each had two Democrats in the senate.

The drop in midwestern Democratic strength has been steady since 1938. Two years ago, even with Roosevelt leading the ticket, only two Democrats won senatorial contests in the midwest—Lucas and the late John Moses of North Dakota. In last week's election not a Democratic candidate for senator won in the middle west and Democratic incumbents in Missouri and Ohio were defeated.

The middle west, with its predominantly rural population, has returned to what it was before 1932.

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH

This week's slip of the tongue: "He don't think so."

Don't is a useful contraction, and it is quite proper in conversation and informal speech and writing. We should make sure, however, that we do not use don't with the wrong pronouns.

Don't is the contraction of "do not." Therefore, don't is incorrect with the pronoun he, she and it, for obviously no one would say "He do not; she do not; it do not." Correct: He doesn't, she doesn't; it doesn't.

Don't is correct with the pronouns I,

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington — There was a dreamlike quality about the President's first press conference since the Republican sweep. It was solemn, a little like a wake.

Veteran reporters were present who had not been at a press conference since the McKinley administration—well, anyway, the Hoover administration. They had waited for this moment of defeat for a long time.

Mr. Truman read his statement in a voice that sounded somehow thinner and scratchier than ever before. It was full of earnest sentiment. It was typical of the man, of his character and his temperament.

With the sentiment and the earnest hope left out, the content is meager. The statement recognizes the dilemma of a government of powers divided between opposing parties but only in passing, as one would recognize the fact that it is raining.

The President apparently accepts the constitutional crisis of the next two years as inevitable. He says nothing about the need to resolve it. At the moment when public attention is focussed on the difficulties of government under our system of divided powers and a fixed term of office for the chief executive, the president might have taken the opportunity to point the need for change through the legitimate process of amending the constitution.

—A HEAVY BLOW—

That is not the President's way. He has always waited until the course of events forced a decision. As he would put it, he does not go out looking for trouble. Unhappily in the White House, trouble—of every kind—runs you down and sits on your chest.

The blow is a greater one than Mr. Truman has permitted the world to see. There is no doubt of that. Too many of the men around him had been telling him, right up into the campaign, that he was doing all right and that his detractors were motivated by malice and jealousy.

The president is badly in need of the kind of brief holiday that might give him perspective. He needs to get away from the little group that surrounds him so tightly. For one thing, a nagging cold has pulled him down and he lacks the springy physical vitality that has carried him through so much adversity during the past year and a half.

In talking with his intimates about the next two years, he puts his hopes on getting together with congress on the kind of legislation that will have bi-partisan support. First on this list is the President's pet project to bring about as large a measure as possible of unification of the armed services. Support for unification, the President points out, has come in the past from both Republicans and Democrats.

The measure he is likely to propose will not go nearly so far as his original proposal to merge the army and the navy under a single secretary of nation defense. Essential economy will be the keynote of a bill that would merge various functions such as the purchasing of supplies.

—FEW VEToes LIkely—

If he follows his present intentions, the President will use his veto power far less than has been anticipated. He is inclined to the view that the incoming congress represents the view of an overwhelming majority of the voters. He feels, therefore, that it is not his place to try to stop with the veto the legislation adopted by the big new majorities in the senate and the house.

Granted this is still his frame of mind as the Congress gets into action, he would probably sign a new labor law even though it resembled the restrictive Case bill, which he once vetoed. He would sign it more in sorrow than in anger, pointing out that it represented the will of the majority as expressed in a fair election.

In other words, as of the present, he feels it his duty to go along with the new Congress. From some quarters the President is getting contrary advice. He is being told that he might fight in order to make a record for a progressive Democratic party. But, except when he gets stubborn, Mr. Truman is not the fighting type.

In that solemn press conference there were no quips, no laughs. You felt that the man behind the desk was ceding powers to the legislature. He acknowledged the verdict of the voters. And while he would be a prisoner in office for another two years, he would be a good prisoner.

It had happened after 14 years, after all the high excitement, the laughter, the coming and going, the drama, the tragedy. A new order had come in.

you, we, they: I don't; you don't; we don't; they don't.

Now let us look at the contraction won't. Is it governed by the same rule that applies to don't? The answer is no.

Won't is the contraction of the obsolete phrase "will not," meaning "will not." Since "will not" may be used with all the pronouns, won't is correct also: I won't; you won't; we won't; they won't; he won't; she won't; it won't.

Shan't is sometimes used as the contraction for "shall not." While shan't is rarely heard in Standard American in these days, it too, may be used with all the seven nominative pronouns, I, you, we, they, he, she, and it. And, of course, can't is used with the same pronouns.

Most dictionaries would have us believe that can't and shan't are correct only when pronounced with the broad A, thus: "kahn't, shahn't." But the words are so pronounced only by some (but by no means all) New Englanders. Elsewhere in the United States, the broad A is used only by those who make a fetish of affected speech. The Standard American pronunciation rhymes can't and shan't with pant, rant.

Since can and shall are always pronounced with a flat A, what reason can anyone advance for the "ah" sound in can't and shan't? All I can say to the dictionary longbears is: Professors, tut-tut!

FIVE PARTIES—Many persons do not realize that there are more than two political parties in the United States. For many years there has been so much talk about the "two-party system" that it may have been a shock to voters last week to discover not two but five political parties listed on the ballot in Michigan. In other states the number and variety of parties sometimes exceeds five.

The five political parties listed on the ballot in Michigan in the recent gubernatorial election were as follows: Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, Socialist Labor, and Communist.

The first four named parties offered voters a complete slate of state candidates, but the Communist party listed candidates only for three state offices and for U. S. Senator. Incidentally, no party had a complete slate of candidates for all state, congressional, legislative and county offices. The Republicans had no nominees for county treasurer or coroner, and the Democrats failed to list a candidate for State Senator, drain commissioner, and county surveyor.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Ellingson spent a few days visiting their daughter, Mrs. Roland Laylolette at Breitung last week.

James Costley was a visitor at Channing Thursday.

Announcement of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. George "Happy" Houlihan of Green Bay has been received here. Mr. Houlihan is a passenger brakeman for the C. & N. W. Ry. and has a host of friends in Escanaba.

John Johnson of the firm of Bloomstrom and Johnson was admitted yesterday to St. Francis hospital as a medical patient.

The Midnight Entertainers will furnish the music for the big dance tonight at Terrace Gardens. If you are dancing tonight is the night. Minors are allowed.

According to the vote totals, the Republicans are the county's "second party." They did make considerable gains over previous elections and showed more strength in the county than has been evident since the Roosevelt New Deal landslide of 1932.

MINORITY PARTIES—Next three parties on the ballot were the Prohibition, Socialist Labor, and Communist. They received support in that order.

The vote for the candidate for governor on the Prohibition ticket totaled 50, the largest number of votes received by any candidate on his ticket.

The governor candidate on the Socialist Labor Party ticket received 13 votes, while that party's candidate for secretary of state received 18.

The Communist party had no candidate for governor, and had only four candidates altogether. These candidates received the following vote: 7, 8, 7 and 8. This would indicate that there is no particular need for alarm that the Communist party will suddenly rise to popular power, at least in this county. At the same time it may surprise many folks that the county has at least eight persons who believe that the Communist party has something no other political party can offer.

WHAT THEY STAND FOR—Most voters believe they understand the policies and platforms represented by the Republican and Democratic parties, although at this particular time it might be difficult to differentiate between them on such important points as international policy, world trade, and national defense. 10 Years Ago—1936

Over 400 young men will be in Escanaba on Friday and Saturday for the sessions of the twenty-fourth annual Michigan Older Boy's Conference. The theme of the conference is "Solving Today's Problems."

Mrs. Joseph L. Clement and Belle Bodette entertained at a miscellaneous shower and wedding party Wednesday evening at the Clement home, complimentary to Viola Reane, bride to be.

Mrs. Jane Koppes announces the marriage of her daughter Marjorie to Mayser Way of this city. The young people will make their home in Escanaba.

At a quiet ceremony performed Thursday morning at St. Joseph's church, Gertrude Loeffler of this city became the bride of Everett B. Wells of Escanaba.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Lake Shore Drive, left Thursday for California where they will spend the winter months.

Lois Abrahamson was the guest of honor at a party arranged in observance of her 14th birthday anniversary yesterday at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. V. Elliott.

20 Years Ago—1926

Motor cars to match frocks appeared for the first time at the Paris Automobile show and made a hit with feminine customers. Clothed outside in silk, linen, tapistry, and even linoleum, the automobile seemed to have come out of dressmaker shops rather than the manufacturers.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Ellingson spent a few days visiting their daughter, Mrs. Roland Laylolette at Breitung last week.

Domestically, of course, the polities of the parties seem most widely at variance. The Prohibition party seems clearly understandable, as its name implies. The Prohibition party attracts to its fold those among us who believe that alcoholic beverages are the root of all evil, political and otherwise. The party is outspoken in its opposition to the liquor traffic and seeks to prohibit the sale and consumption of the stuff.

Quite frankly we are unfamiliar with the aims of the Socialist Labor party. Apparently the majority of Delta county residents are likewise in comparative ignorance of its political policies, although the words socialist and labor have certain connotations which should appeal to persons with liberal tendencies. That the ranks of labor are not socialist, however, is indicated by the small vote polled by candidates on the Socialist Labor ticket.

Whether the Communist party in this state is dedicated to international Sovietism we do not know. For the enlightenment of voters, there are at least eight persons in Delta county, however, who might offer this information, since they voted the Communist ticket.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Most important question to be decided at the Republican organization meetings to be held on Capitol Hill today will be the time-honored matter of "Seniority." In other words, does the ablest man sit as chairman of a committee or the party hack with the "mostest" service?

This was one thing which handicapped congress under the Democrats. The old-timers usually were Southern Conservatives who, because of seniority, were given charge of important committees.

The Republicans have a real chance to change this. In the first place, a new broom can always sweep clean. Secondly, there was much talk when the congressional reorganization act was passed about abolishing seniority.

If committee chairman were picked on the basis of brains, not seniority, hard-working, trigger-brained Albert J. Engel of Muskegon, Mich., would be chairman of the important appropriations committee, instead of Moss-back Congressman John Taber of Auburn, N. Y. Engel's watchful eye on war department spending was described by Gen. George Marshall as one of the healthiest influences on the army.

Again, if brains rather than age prevailed, able Representative Daniel Reed of Dunkirk, N. Y., would become chairman of the Ways and Means committee, instead of babbling, bumptious Harold Knutsen of Minnesota.

—BRAINS DON'T MATTER—
First test of seniority may come if Senator Joe Ball of Minnesota attempts to leap-frog over Vermont's George Aiken as chairman of the Senate Education and Labor committee. This happens to be one case where the man with the seniority—Aiken—is thoroughly qualified for the job.

Ball, on the other hand, is branded by both AFL and CIO as the "Friend of U. S. Steel." Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who had a fine record on the War Labor Board, might also be picked as chairman of the labor committee should seniority be cast aside.

If seniority prevails, chairmanship of the highly important new National Defense committee (merging the Military Affairs and Naval Affairs committees) will go to Senator Chan Gurney of South Dakota, a brass-hat bellboy. Senators Charles Tobey of New Hampshire or Owen Brewster of Maine, both abler men, would be logical choices over Gurney if brains were considered important. But, according to many solons in both parties, they aren't. The Republicans have a real chance to break with hide-bound precedent, but the betting odds are they won't take it.

—WILL ROGERS ON BENCH—
Last spring, California's popular Democratic Attorney General, Bob Kenny, was defeated in the state's gubernatorial primary by Governor Earl Warren. This week, Kenny received the following wire from defeated Democratic senatorial candidate, Will Rogers, Jr.:
"Dear Bob, please move over."

Replied Kenny: "Dear Will, frankly there's no more room on the mourners' bench."

—CAPITAL CHAFF—
Harold Ickes, stalwart of the Roosevelt cabinet, strongly opposed the appointment of Elliott Roosevelt to the committee of progressives to carry out Roosevelt ideals. In the end, Ickes was overruled. . . . Friends of Senator Bilbo say he is suffering from cancer of the mouth. Some believe this is only a smokescreen to arouse sympathy during the investigation of Bilbo's war-contract scandals which smell to high heaven. . . . Secretary of War Patterson requires a top aide to be on the job in the war department when he leaves town; therefore Under Secretary Royall, Assistant Secretaries Symington and Peterson drew straws to see who would stay home during the Army-Notre Dame game. Symington lost. However, it will now be his turn to see the Army-Navy game. . . . Something strange is going on inside the Federal Communications commission. It recently awarded a radio station to J. Harold Smith, whose radio programs were such that the Scripps-Howard station in Knoxville dropped him from the air. Now, thanks to the FCC, Mr. Smith can go to town on his own station

She Treads On Royalty And Makes 'Em Like It

By KATHARINE SHERWOOD
New York, (NEA.)—Evelyn McCullagh has trod on some of the royalist toes still extant; her only reaction has been to order the blue bloods to keep their feet out of her way.

She has danced with kings and rajahs, been the confidante of sultans and the Saturday night date of a prince. She once helped a short-of-cash queen unload an $80,000 pearl necklace. Most of it was fun; the dancing part was strictly business.

Miss McCullagh is a sophisticated, sparkling Englishwoman who once won an international ballroom dancing championship. Despite the toppling crowns in a post-war world, there are still a few maharajahs and sultans left, and she hopes to teach them to tango "as sinuously as a snake moves through the grass" before she retires.

It was the Maharajah of Patiala, then vacationing in England, who started her on the royal road of dancing. The Maharajah's agent called her and offered her 1000 pounds (about $4000) if she'd give him Highness 12 lessons. That did it.

After she taught the Maharajah a few graceful steps, he decided his daughters—six of them—could stand a lesson or two.

"He asked me to teach his daughters both the man's and the girl's parts so they could dance together. They used to wear beautiful saris draped around them and it took me some time before I realized the saris were dotted with diamonds, not rhinestones."

From then on an increasing number of those born with jeweled-platinum spoons in their mouths came to learn.

Among the gayest was Prince Tongtor of Siam. He wanted to brush up on the latest variations of the tango.

"Prince Tongtor had a great sense of fun. He insisted that this was a 'holiday' now and then."

"His idea of a gay 'holiday' was this: a movie, lunch at the Savoy, another movie, dinner at the Savoy, another movie, late supper at the Savoy, and finally a midnight movie."

Sign Language
"The Prince was an excellent dancer."

It was because of Prince Tongtor that the late King Prajaothipok of Siam decided to learn to dance.

"The King was very timid and shy. He wanted to be able to dance in public but he didn't want anyone to know he was taking lessons. He wanted to surprise his wife."

Once in a while Miss McCullagh found herself running short of languages, and as in the case of the Sultan of Pahang, had to resort to signs. The Sultan could speak neither French nor English.

"I had to move his arms for him and point to feet positions. We were working slowly. His aides were supposed to be practicing with other instructors. All of a sudden, they started whooping like ten-year-old boys. I turned around and there these dignified men were sliding up and down the polished, waxed floor. Just like little children."

The Sultan became an ardent dancing fan and offered Miss McCullagh a contract to go to Pa-hang to teach his women to tango. Among her pupils were King Alphonse of Spain, the late Duke of Kent of England, one-time British Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin ("a stolid but earnest pupil") and the Maharajah of Bikanir, a portly gentleman with stiffly waxed mustaches who used to hire the Mayfair hotel ballroom for his private lessons and assigned guards to insure privacy.

Miss McCullagh frowns on jitters, although she once taught an Indian princess to tap dance.

"Americans have more dancing in their little finger than the English have in their whole bodies," she says. "But the American throws himself around too much. The English control their motions and frequently dance more smoothly."

Only one customer ever fooled Miss McCullagh.

"A seedy looking man, thin and poorly dressed, came to me in a fashionable hotel and asked what I charged for lessons. I knew that he would faint if I told him the correct amount but I felt sorry for him, so I halved my average figure. He signed up for a course. When he finished, I learned that he owned one of the largest private banks in England."

City Gas Utility Closes Biggest Year In History

Escanaba's municipal gas utility has just completed "the biggest year in its history", and it is expected that the coming year will be one of still greater activity and expansion for the city's gas plant, according to a report by Stanton Abrahamson, superintendent of the gas department, in the city's annual report.

The total operating revenue of the gas utility for the fiscal year ending June 3 was $76,273.54, compared to last year's previous high of $66,624.18, it was reported.

"This was due chiefly to the increase in population, the scarcity of wood, and the increased use of gas refrigerators and gas water heaters," Supt. Abrahamson reported. "The plant operated this past year with a personnel of four men—two gas makers and two firemen operators."

Total operating expense of the utility was $61,027.47, leaving a net profit to the city of $15,597.06. Of the latter amount, $6,584.06 were charged to taxes and interest on investment paid to the city, leaving a net profit to the utility of $9,013.

During the past fiscal year the gas plant made a total of 61,561,000 cubic feet of gas, compared to $3,749,000 cubic feet the previous year.

The average number of customers last fiscal year was 2,457, compared with 2,312 the year before. The use of gas per residential customer increased, and the average annual bill of the residential gas customer also increased from $26.11 to $27.94.

Comparative figures in total annual gas revenue for the past 10 years show the effect of the wartime cooperation in fuel saving practiced by customers, and the sharp increase in use when the war ended. The total annual gas revenue by years is as follows:

1936	$60,863	1937	$61,511
1938	$60,622	1939	$59,752
1940	$61,455	1941	$59,644
1942	$62,882	1943	$60,806
1944	$66,624	1945	$76,273

COWELL BLDG. MUNISING PHONE 162PRELUDE TO DEER SEASON*Hunters Begin Invasion Of Resort Cabins Here

Munising—Red clad deer hunters wearing brightly colored socks and heavy boots began to fill up resort cabins and rooming houses here as the deer season's opening day drew closer yesterday.

The invasion of the hunters brought crowded restaurants and busy streets to Munising early this week and it is expected that more and more men, and women hunters too, will swell this little town's population to overflowing before the deer season gets fully under way.

Local groceries are doing a bigger business also. Hunters carrying sacks of flour and an assortment of groceries out to their already well loaded automobiles has become a common site here. Before the local residents are out of bed in the morning, hunters are up and stirring; getting things ready for Friday and looking over the outlying countryside for possible camp sites on the most frequented deer runs.

Temporary huts and encampments have been erected all through the woods area near Munising and little towns have sprung up over-nite. Conservation officer, H. E. Carlson reports, that some hunters are digging wells to supply these camp sites with water. Temporary, as the camps will be, the keynote in most of them seems to be convenience at all costs.

The shooting that has been heard in Munising the last few days is no cause for alarm or suspicion that someone is jumping the season, the police department announces. Hunters are "zeroing in" their rifles and getting in preliminary target practice at the city playground under authorization of the local police department, Chief of Police Frank Chase reported.

BEGIN RECOUNT ON SATURDAYCounty Canvassers Act On Petition Of R. E. Boogren

Munising—The recount of votes cast in November 5 election for Russell Boogren and Arthur Mootie, running for the office of Alger county sheriff, will be held on Saturday, November 16, at 1:00 p. m., it was announced yesterday.

The Board of Canvassers will gather at the court house in Munising to make the recount. Authorization of the recount is found in paragraph 3211, chapter XVIII "Laws Relating to Elections" State of Michigan, revision of 1944, which states: "Any candidate voted for, for a village, township, city or ward, or county office, or for the office of senator, elected by a district composed of one county or less than one county, at any election, conceiving himself aggrieved on account of any fraud or mistake in the canvass of the votes by the inspectors of election, or in the returns made thereon by said inspectors, may petition for a recount of the votes cast for such office in any precinct or precincts."

Paragraph 3214, of the same manual, states the length of time which may elapse after the election before the petition is filed "* such petition shall be filed within six days after the county board of canvassers has made its official report of the result of the election at which such votes were cast, and any other counter petition shall be filed within twenty-four hours thereafter."

As the records now show, Arthur Mootie, Republican, leads Russell Boogren, Democrat, for the office of sheriff by 73 votes. The office of sheriff was the only Alger county office to elect a Republican on November 5, all other offices are held by the Democratic party. If results of the recount show Mootie to win, he will be the first Republican to hold a county office since 1934.

111 Cedar StreetMANAGER HOLDS FIRST MEETING*Council Favors Many Suggestions Made By Him

Appointment of Frank Voisine as custodian of city property, discussion of details incidental to the purchase of a snow plow with hydraulic hitch equipment, granting of three building permits and a discussion of matters of policy pertaining to use of city equipment took up most of Tuesday evening's session of the Manistique city council.

This was the first session of the council at which James Dickson, the new city manager, has presided, and the council gave favorable consideration to a number of his suggestions presented at the meeting.

Chief among these suggestions was the one asking that the position of custodian of city property be established and that Frank Voisine, who was acting city manager after Charles Manson had moved away, be appointed to this position. Mr. Dickson stated that the thousands of dollars worth of city equipment is at present under the direct care of none in particular. Under such a system, tools can disappear and get in bad order without anyone being seriously concerned about them. The council approved of the job and of Voisine's appointment.

The council and the manager went into lengthy discussion about the purchase of a snow plow and hydraulic hitch equipment favoring the purchase of such equipment but leaving it up to the city manager to investigate the bids submitted more completely before making any purchase.

Building permits were granted, subject to the approval of the city fire chief and the city manager, to the Nelson Cloverland Creamery and the Manistique Laundry, which contemplate building additions to their establishments and to A. L. Norton, 214 Maple street, who wishes to construct a fire-proof garage.

The city manager was authorized to advertise for bids for the purchase of an electric range for the fire chief's apartment and an electric cooking unit for the firemen's club rooms.

The council approved the city manager's suggestion that the use of city equipment for private use be discouraged as much as possible, it being claimed that often this equipment is found to be in bad order when the city has need for it.

BRAULT BOWLING ALLEYBoy Scout Units Here Make Progress

Scouting in Manistique is definitely looking up, says B. N. Bradford, executive of the Red Buck district in Manistique Wednesday making arrangements for attendance of local Scouts at a court of honor ceremony presented at Garden that evening.

He was particularly pleased with the achievement of Lions Club sponsored Troop 462, which under the leadership of Louis Rogers, was to attend the court of honor with 100 per cent advancements. The Rotary sponsored Troop No. 461, under the leadership of Ben Karwoski, also planned to attend with a very good record of advancements.

Although the American Legion sponsored Troop 460 was not to be officially represented at the court of honor, Mr. Bradford was very proud of its achievements. Because of incomplete records, the troop could not be represented, but will have a court of honor of its own some time in the near future.

Troop 460 was recently reorganized and placed under the leadership of Bob Hentschell, a former member of the organization. On its executive committee under the new setup are Harvey Quick, Ted Monroe and Lowell Hebbard.

This is the pioneer troop of Manistique Scouts. It was organized in 1932 and has been in operation continuously ever since. In the fourteen years of its existence the following have served as leaders: Ed LaFave, Fred Williams, Lauritz Dredahl, Earl Jewett, Harold Mayer and Bob Hentschell.

Few Game Law Violators Among Visiting Hunters

In spite of the fact that deer hunters are trekking into this area in unprecedented numbers and conservation officers are now keeping close watch, the number of pre-season game law violations has to date been remarkably low, the local conservation department reports.

In the past week but two game law violations were taken care of in the Manistique justice of the peace office.

Paul Thibideau, of Gernfask, was arrested Friday by Conservation Officer Harold R. Peters and when brought before Judge W. G. Stephens, pleaded guilty to the charge of illegal trapping. Extenuating circumstances were considered and a fine was suspended. He, however, paid $8.50 costs.

Harry Gast, of St. Joseph, was arrested Saturday in Hiawatha township by Officer Leslie Wahlstrand, and charged with having a rifle of larger caliber than .22 in his possession while traveling through an area frequented by deer. He paid a fine of $10 and $8.50 costs.

Cards-Rams Clash Should Be Whale Of Scoring Battle

New York, Nov. 13. (AP)—Judging from the team statistics released by the National football league today, the Chicago Cardinals and Los Angeles Rams should put on a whale of a scoring battle for the customers in the California city Sunday.

The clubs run one-two in practically all of the offensive departments of the league and both have displayed porous defenses. Jimmy Conzelman's Cardinals top the circuit in total yards gained, 2,658; yards gained passing, 1,545, and total points, 187. The Rams, with Bobby Waterfield packing the punch, are second in total yards, 2,321; second to Washington in yards gained rushing with 1,040 to the Redskins' 1,008; second in passing with 1,266 and second in points with 170.

On defense, they run last and next to last in virtually every department except ground yardage. Philadelphia's Eagles, with Tommy Thompson their most accurate heaver, are first in team passing with 563 completion average followed by the New York Giants, 492, Washington and the Bears, 483 each, Cardinals, 472 and Los Angeles, 441.

Washington's Redskins are the league's defensive leaders. The Skins have held their foes to a total of 1,325 yards, have allowed only 485 yards rushing, and 834 yards through the air, for first place in all three departments. Chicago's Bears have given up the second lowest total yardage, 1,667. Green Bay's Packers, third in total defense with 1,716 yards, have given up the fewest points, 89, and are second in pass defense, having yielded 844 yards via the air.

Beau Jack Breaks Kneecap; Chicago Boxer Substitutes

Chicago, Nov. 13. (AP)—Nick Castiglione, Chicago Italian lightweight, was announced tonight as a substitute for Beau Jack in a 10 round battle with Willie Joyce, Gary, Ind., in Chicago Stadium Friday night. The Atlanta, Ga., negro warrior, fractured his left knee cap in a final boxing drill today.

Promoters Jack Begun and Irving Schoenwald said they secured Castiglione to substitute for the injured Jack when the advance sale had indicated a crowd in excess of 12,000.

Castiglione, who upset Bill Parsons, Danville, Ill., puncher Monday night, agreed to terms tonight

Steffy, Army Guard, Lineman Of Week In AP Writers Poll

New York, Nov. 13. (AP)—Joe Steffy, five-foot-eleven, 190-pound Army guard, emerged today from the Army-Notre Dame "football battle of the century" as the lineman of the week in the sixth Associated Press poll of the season.

The Cadet from Chattanooga had the stiffest kind of opposition in the balloting from at least a dozen other forward wall standouts, half of them stellar performers in the big game at Yankee Stadium.

Other linemen in the Irish-Cadet classic who came in for a major share of attention were Guard John Mastrangelo, Tackles George Sullivan and George Connors, Ends Jim Martin and Jack Zilly of Notre Dame and Wingman Barney Poole of Army.

Also leading contenders for this week's honors were Ends Alton Baldwin of Arkansas, Neil Armstrong of Oklahoma Aegies and Kelly Mote of Duke; Tackle Ed Champagne, Louisiana State, and Centers Chuck Bednarik, Pennsylvania; Dick Scott, Navy; Paul Duke, Georgia Tech and Bryant Meeks, South Carolina.

Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy thought Martin and Sullivan were the Irish's "outstanding men" against the Army. Bednarik, who gets a crack at Army this week, played such a bang-up game against Columbia that Lou Little, Columbia coach, termed him one of the best centers he has seen in years.

Dick Scott, star Navy center, played one of the best games of his brilliant career against Georgia Tech. So did Tech's snapper-back, Paul Duke.

The other linemen nominated this week included: Tackles—John Goldsberry, Indiana. Centers—John Cannady, Indiana.

St. Joseph High School Varsity Basketball Team "What Is The Team Going To Do This Year?"

Some of the old athletes of years past are curious and wondering if the team this year will measure up to the standards of former St. Joe teams. Some very good teams have represented the school and we hope more will do so again. We hope this year's team will be a top-notch team, but we are wondering, as stated before, and hence this letter.

Remember what happened to the Varsity three years ago??? A batch of old-timers practiced together two or three times and then beat the pants off the Varsity. Well, some of those Alumni players are not here this year but we have recruited a few of the members of your teams of the last two years and still think we can beat you at this game of speed and skill.

How About It??? Do you think you could make an interesting game of it for us? We doubt it. We hereby challenge the St. Joe Varsity to a game to be played at their gym at any date they desire, and you can even pick your own referee.

We only hope you have a team that can make us step. If you need some extra players, why not use some of your girls. We only request that you do not use your coach as he is an alumnus too.

Signed St. Joe's Alumni Basketball Team

HUNTERS WANT SNOW—The comparatively small areas shown in the drawings above where a shot will cause instant death are a tipoff on the reason most deer and bear hunters prefer to have the ground covered with snow. A shot placed elsewhere, while it may cripple or eventually kill, allows the animal to travel some distance and without snow tracking may be difficult or even impossible.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

All of the Big Nine schools, except Illinois and Minnesota, have approved the five year plan under which the Western Conference would participate in the annual Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, but it is significant that one of the schools opposed to the plan happens to be currently leading the Big Nine. Illinois holds the inside track on the conference championship, but has games remaining with Ohio State and Northwestern. Whether Illinois would accept a bid to play in the Rose Bowl, even though it cast a negative ballot, is uncertain but it is not likely.

Assuming that Illinois is out of consideration for the Rose Bowl bid due to their own attitude on the matter, the ultimate decision probably would rest on the outcome of the Michigan-Ohio State game at Columbus Nov. 23. At present Michigan is in second place in the conference standings, the equivalent of a half-game behind Illinois, while the Buckeyes are in third place, having played one less conference game than the Wolverines. Iowa and Indiana also must be considered but the best bet is either Michigan or Ohio State. Both schools, incidentally, have participated in the Rose Bowl in the past, before the Western Conference put on the taboo which it is lifting this year.

The scoreless tie in the Army-Notre Dame game last Saturday, followed by the scoreless tie in the Menominee-Marquette high school game Monday prompted a local football fan to inquire why these teams did not try for a field goal when they were in scoring distance. There are several reasons and all of them should be given some thought and attention when the football rules committee meets again. First, few high school or college teams, for that matter, have had any training kicking field goals from beyond the 15 yard line. When a team gets within 10 yards of the opponents' goal, particularly in the first half, it tries for a touchdown which counts six, maybe seven, points instead of a field goal that only tallies three points.

Another compelling reason for the discouragement of field goal kicking—and the most important, by far—is the fact that some yokel number of years ago thought up the bright idea to bury the goal posts 10 yards behind the goal line and the high schools haven't yet developed any Superman kickers who can take the 10 yard handicap in stride. Ditto for most of the colleges. Please, Mr. Ruwitch, when the prep football committees meet this winter, beg them to return the goal posts to the goal line. You might also put in a plug to increase the value of a field goal to four points. Then, mister, you'll have yourself a football game that we can all enjoy more completely. You can just about scratch out the scoreless tie on this kind of a deal.

All America Suit Against Collins Of Yanks Is Settled

New York, Nov. 13. (AP)—The All America conference's suit against owner Ted Collins of the Boston Yanks of the National football league has been settled out of court according to word from the office of Commissioner James Crowley. The law action, a result of the Boston-Los Angeles battle over Angelo Bertelli, was dropped when Collins paid a "substantial amount" in an amicable settlement, the A. A. said today.

GREENBERG MAY PICK OUTFIELD

Big Detroit Slugger Doesn't Care For First Sack Job

Detroit, Nov. 13. (AP)—Hank Greenberg, the Detroit Tigers' slugging first baseman who took down the major league home run championship with 44 circuit swats last season, may go back into the outfield next season—if he plays at all.

Greenberg still hasn't made known his plans for 1947 but Manager Steve O'Neill, here for a business conference with General Manager George Trautman of the Tigers, said the big slugger, who'll be 36 years old on New Year's Day, had voiced a desire to return to the outfield.

"The last time I saw Hank he told me that if he stayed in baseball he would not play first base again," O'Neill said. "He may have changed his mind since, but I imagine he would prefer to return to the outfield, where he played before the war."

Such a shift involving Greenberg would move Dick Wakefield into right field so that Hank could play the left field post he became accustomed to when he voluntarily left the infield to give Rudy York the call on first base in 1939. With Greenberg back in the outfield Detroit could put Roy Cullenbine at first full time. Last year Cullenbine led the Tigers at bat while dividing his time between right field and first base as Greenberg's relief.

O'Neill hinted that the Tigers might still be interested in a deal for a first baseman, but said flatly that no trades would be negotiated at the expense of Detroit's top four pitchers—Hal Newhouser, Paul Trout, Virgil Trucks and Freddie Hutchinson—all of whom would be back next season.

Trautman said that President Larry MacPhail and Manager Bucky Harris of the New York Yankees have suggested a conference with the Tiger bosses during the big league meetings next month in Los Angeles. "What they want to talk about I don't know," Trautman said.

Percy Jones Team Keeps Record Clean

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 13. (AP)—The Percy Jones General Hospital eleven kept its unbeaten, untied record intact here today by easily downing Albion College 28 to 6 for its seventh straight win.

Bob Fowler, former UCLA Negro star, again paced the Generals attack. He scored touchdowns on rushes of 85 and 25 yards and threw a pass to End Wayne Bell of Sioux Falls, Ind. for another tally. Quarterback Melvin Ott of Traverse City scored the final tally on a five yard dash while Tackle Al Ripple of Detroit converted on all four attempts.

Albion scored its lone tally on a pass from Dick Hopkins to Bill Bennett for a 14 yard touchdown play.

No Rose Bowl Bids Received By Cadets

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 13. (AP)—Rose Bowl rumors continued to flow into the United States Military Academy today but little credence was given to the preliminary reports as "no bid has been received" continued to be the answer.

However, Colonel Ned B. Moore, public relations officer, did state that the War Department has taken the definite stand that if a bid is tendered, the final decision as to whether or not the Cadets will make the long trip would be entirely up to Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, superintendent of the academy.

There is no indication that the gold-helmeted Cadets would accept and in fact, Gen. Taylor has made it clear that there are sev-

Williams Must Learn To Hit To Left Field

By HARRY GRAYSON NEA Sports Editor

Boston.—(NEA).—Ted Williams must learn to punch the ball into left field or be just an ordinary hitter instead of the finest of the generation, which The Kid was until Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians conceived the shift bearing his name.

So says one as close to the Red Sox slugger as coach Del Baker, the old catcher who formerly managed the Tigers.

The Cardinals employed an even more exaggerated switch to the right, with third baseman Whitey Kurowski playing in the second baseman's position, and in the first two World Series games it was clearly demonstrated that this was the solution to the Williams threat—unless he jabs the ball into left field or bunts.

Williams' average tumbled perceptibly when the other American League clubs put on their own editions of the Boudreau shift. If Williams keeps swinging the way he has, as many as 60 points can be knocked off his batting average in a season.

The shift deprived him of two or three hits in the first two engagements of the World Series. There was the smack just out of Stan Musial's reach, for example, which was fielded by Red Schoendienst, virtually backing up the first baseman.

Instead of doing what any other good hitter would have done—slap the ball into left field and force the defense to play him as a straight-away hitter—Williams accepted the shift as a personal challenge, determined to either blast the ball out of the lot or knock somebody's head off.

While many learned baseball men traced Williams' refusal to attempt to hit to left to obstinacy, there also was reason to believe that doing so wasn't as easy a matter for him as they seemed to suspect.

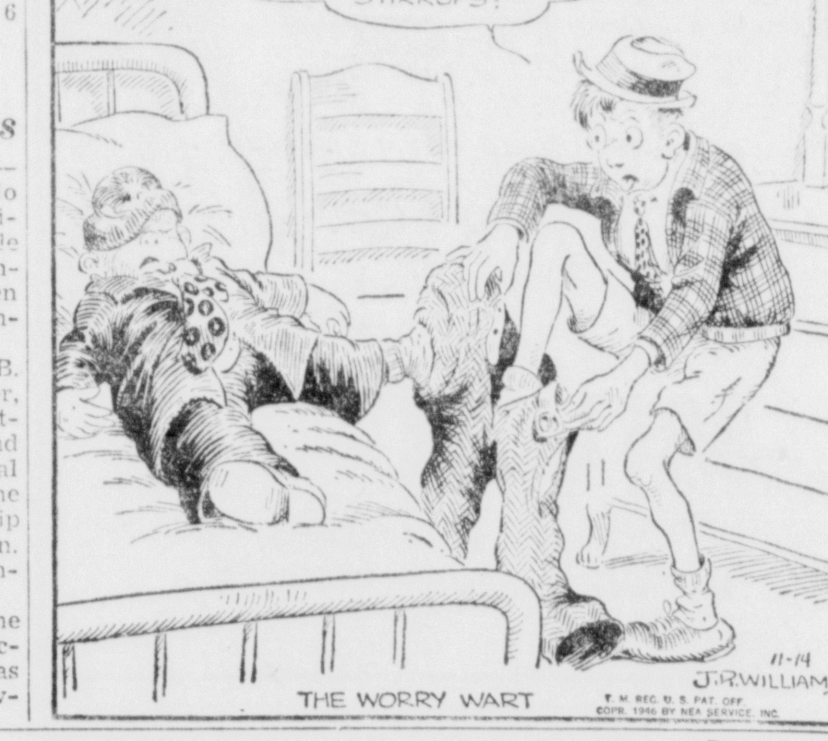

"Because of Williams' height and long, flowing swing, it is difficult for him to do anything else but go through with it," asserts coach Larry Woodall of the Boston Sox. Williams thought it was best for him to swing naturally. He explained that he felt uncomfortable trying to hit to left, it caused him to pop up. That is precisely what he did when he finally got around to the idea in his final trip to the plate in the second game.

Williams must get it through his hard head that other remarkable pull hitters had to learn to hit to left. Babe Ruth did it with all his bulk. The Kid finally relented.

eral important factors that would have to be weighed. The most important concerns academics.

HUNTERS HURT IN GUN MISHAP

Cecil Campbell, 30, Of Fairgrove, Blinded

One Lower Michigan hunter is in St. Francis hospital receiving treatment for a wound which blinded him in the left eye, and his brother was discharged after treatment of minor wounds to his left ankle as the result of a gun accident that occurred at 10 a. m. yesterday near Watson.

They are Cecil Campbell, 30, whose left eyeball was penetrated and his nose pierced by bullet fragments; and his brother, Blenford, 32, both of Fairgrove near Bay City. Blenford's left ankle was punctured by bullet fragments. He was released from the hospital yesterday afternoon and returned to camp.

The accident occurred two and one-half miles west of Arnold, where the hunting camp of the Campbells is located. They have hunted out of the camp annually for several seasons.

According to a report made to state police at Gladstone, Blenford was preparing his .32 special rifle for the hunting season which opens tomorrow, and was checking the sights. Other members of the party were standing behind him.

State police said that Blenford reported that he placed a cartridge in the rifle, closed the lever, and the rifle discharged. The bullet struck a boulder about four feet in front of him and shattered into fragments that struck Blenford in the ankle and Cecil in the eye and nose.

Duluth X-Rays 101,000 In Test To Check TB

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
Duluth—(AP)—Duluth is starting this fall a ten-year experiment designed to end tuberculosis by using chest X-rays on everyone of the city's 101,000 inhabitants to detect every incipient case. The estimated cost is 35 cents per person.

This city is the first of its population class in the nation to try this case-finding on everyone, regardless of age. The plan, known as operation CX (Chest X-rays) is under the direction of Dr. Mario Fischer, city health director, and Dr. Roberts Davies, assistant superintendent of Nopeming Sanatorium and director of the mobile X-ray unit.

The total cost of the operation is only about $25,000 a year. Three years of similar X-ray detection on the other 105,000 inhabitants of St. Louis county, in which the city of Duluth is situated, included are three mining towns, Hibbing, Virginia and Ely. The CX operation in the county began in 1943. In two years the tuberculosis death rate in the operation area dropped 40 percent faster than in Duluth. The X-rays uncovered three times more tuberculosis than had been known before. Catching these cases early resulted in a higher proportion of improvements and recoveries. More important early detection greatly reduced the exposure of healthy people to the TB carriers.

In Ely, at the start, the incidence of tuberculosis was 82 persons per 100,000. Three years later the incidence was 17 per 100,000. Dr. Fischer said that the Ely experience indicates that a resurvey by X-rays probably is not needed oftener than once each three years.

The Duluth officials have another reason for believing tuberculosis can be ended. Dr. Fischer says that had TB continued the same rate of decline that it had for a long time, there would have been no tuberculosis, either in the United States or in Duluth, by the year 1947. The sharp drop began nationally 30 years ago. But in recent years the fall has been slowing down.

The reason, Dr. Fischer said, is that the old method of control, that worked so well for a time, was not sufficiently thorough to drive TB to zero. Under the old plan, each case of tuberculosis was considered a focus for new cases. New cases then were sought among the persons closely associated with the TB victim.

But this plan missed many cases where the disease was not yet recognized, but where the victim was nevertheless spreading it. The taking of chest X-rays is voluntary. In the county the response ranged from 89 to 99 percent.

The county survey incidentally uncovered occasional cases of goiter, lung cancer and heart trouble.
